Warmer Summer Months Mean Increased Water Use.

Warmer summer months mean increased water use. During a typical summer, Modesto residents use three times more water than they do in the winter! Much of this is directly related to outdoor water use.

The following are some ways that you can help ensure we all have enough water pressure this summer:

- Consider putting your landscape irrigation on a timer. The best ones allow you to select specific days of the week for watering and have a battery backup in case of power failure. They can also be programmed to run more than once a day. Purchasing this type of timer will also help you comply with the City of Modesto Year-Round Outdoor Watering Schedule.
- Be sure to water early in the morning or in the evening after 7 p.m. This will keep the hot sun from evaporating the water and results in more efficient watering.
- Find out what type of soil you have at your home. If you have very hard soil, it is better to water two to three times on your scheduled watering days for five minutes at a time rather than once a day for a longer period. By watering wisely you will experience less runoff and most of the water will stay where it should. Remember, you must keep water on your property when watering outdoors. Flooding gutters is not using water wisely and is a violation of city restrictions.

- Purchase drought-tolerant plants and shrubs. If you are not sure which plants are drought-tolerant, ask at your local nursery for great landscaping ideas.
- Check sprinklers once a month to make sure they are not broken. Make sure sprinklers are not spraying onto streets, sidewalks or driveways.
- Turn off the sprinklers on windy days.
- Use a shut-off nozzle whenever you use a hose. Also, consider using a broom to clean sidewalks, patios etc.

Remember, with water, there is never enough to waste!
